

COLOUR MATCHING DISCLAIMER

Effective Date: 17th of August, 2026

Precision Labelling takes reasonable care to reproduce colours as accurately as possible. However, colour appearance can vary between digital displays, artwork files, proofs, materials & finished products.

1. Colour Variation

Minor colour variations may occur due to:

- Different monitos, screens & device settings
- RGB versus CMYK & Pantone colour formats
- Printing processes & ink characteristics
- Material, substrate & surface finish
- Lighting conditions
- Lamination or other finishing processes
- Variations between production runs

A colour displayed on screen or within a digital proof should not be considered an exact representation of the finished printed colour.

2. Colour Matching

Where an exact or critical colour match is required, the customer should advise Precision Labelling before production.

Where a recognised colour standard, physical sample or other agreed colour reference is supplied, Precision Labelling will use reasonable efforts to achieve the closest practical match using the selected production process & material.

Due to the inherent limitations of printing & different substrates, an exact visual match cannot always be guaranteed.

3. Customer Approval

Approval of a digital proof or website live preview constitutes acceptance of the artwork & its intended colour representation, subject to reasonable variation between the digital representation & finished product.

Where colour accuracy is critical, customers are encouraged to request a physical sample or colour reference before proceeding with a production quantity.

4. Australian Consumer Law

Nothing in this disclaimer excludes, restricts or modifies any rights or remedies available to a customer under the Australian Consumer Law or other applicable legislation.
